Favorite Bar Names

We at Chocomize are all about giving people the ability to customize their own chocolate bar. We recently added a new way that people can personalize their own candy chocolate bar. In the brand new checkout system, people can create names for their chocolate that will appear on the back of the packaging! Oh and did I mention that this new feature is completely free? We didn't think anyone could get more excited about this new addition than us, but we've had a lot of great response from our customers. We've also seen some great names. I don't even know how many times we'll be making chocolate when we will read one of the names of the bars and just burst into laughter. We've liked some of the names so much, that we decided that we would share them with you guys. The following are three of our favorite names so far. Let us know what you think.
